

OBITUARY.

Evan Colin Dougal Campbell. (Espin – 1953)

Colin's father took him out of College before he matriculated and sent him overseas to learn farming the hard way. He returned after two years to run the family farm, Zunidza, in Nyazura.

While still farming in 1963, he married Cathie Low. Some six years later diversification put an end to his farming and he joined William Bain (a company that manufactures and sells farm equipment.) He started in Mutare and then managed the Chegutu branch before becoming Managing Director of William Bain in Harare.

Colin and Cathy had four grandchildren and were the proud grandparents of six. In the words of his widow, Colin was an honourable, well loved man who led a good and happy life.

(Information for Colin's obituary was supplied by his widow, Cathie Low, and edited by the Harare Branch chairman)
